COMMUNION MEDITATION

"THE INCLUSIVE CHRIST"

Scripture references: Matthew 8:5-13
Matthew 15:21-28

Jesus said of himself, "I was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." (Matthew 15:24.) He also instructed the Twelve, "Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and enter not into any city of the Samaritans, but go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." (Matthew 10:5.) He conducted no mission to Gentiles or on Gentile soil. One could make a case for the exclusive Christ from these and other sayings.

But the overwhelming weight of his ministry in spirit, word and deed is on the side of a generous inclusiveness. He yielded to the entreaty of the Syrophenician woman because of her faith. Likewise to the Roman Centurion, with strong words of commendation. He transcended strong prejudice and custom in the conversation with the Samaritan woman at the well. In the Great Commission he sends his followers into "all the world." Such instances could be multiplied.

The factor of response and inclusiveness in our relationship with Christ strongly appears to be faith only, wholly without regard to race, color, class or national origin.

"DEEPER DOWN THAN DECALOGUE"

Scripture: Mark 12:28-34

In the recent series on "Four Fronts of Christian Warfare," the third sermon on moral renewal proposed to go back to the Ten Commandments, and also further back and deeper down than the Decalogue. We succeeded in going further back, but time prevented our going Deeper Down. This sermon seeks to complete the projected theme, and the preacher hopes it will be received as a "spin off" rather than a "left over."

The simplest way, and one of the oldest, to approach human moral problems is the legalistic which in logical development proliferates into rules for any situation. Although this way has proven to fail many times in history, the legalistic mind is still with us. Its extreme opposite is called antinomianism, literally antilegalism, and places full dependence upon inward experience, or upon immediate and spontaneous Holy Spirit guidance.

The best in Christian ethical thought has followed neither of these extremes, but has sought rather a healthy combination and balance of both understandings. Its basic cue is our Lord's use of the great commandments to love. This sermon will seek to go Deeper Down by way of this proven and well worked route.

Thou hast taught us that we do not live by bread alone, but we have sought diligently our earthly security. Thou hast taught us the ways of prayer, but we have neglected our worship of thee. We beg thy mercy, and humbly pray for thy restoring and strengthening grace; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

"A TOAST TO A HERETIC"

Scripture: Galatians 3:6-14

Next Sunday on the Christian calendar is Reformation Day. On October 31 of this year, 451 years will have passed since the unknown professor, Martin Luther, nailed his ninety-five (95) theses to the door of the Castle Church of Wittenberg. Therefore, it is fitting to have a sermon on our heritage. It provides us an opportunity to learn and to renew our understanding of Church history.

The simplest way to consider Luther would be to see his place in history. We will find through inquiry some rather startling facts to our questions: Are we really celebrating Martin Luther on a wrong occasion? What was he like?

Our conclusions from these two questions will provide us, I believe, a fresh and new view of the man Luther. He will be seen as a reformer, heretic, and preacher of the 16th century. But not in the traditional sense; it will be from a believer's standpoint, from a historian's new findings.

Hopefully, our toast to Martin Luther will convict us and challenge us to appropriate, personally and creatively, something of his life. We may find, perhaps, that we are his followers and have indeed appropriated his religious genius.

"THE REALITY PRINCIPLE IN LIFE AND FAITH"

It has always been easy for human beings to live, think and pray at levels of unreality. Some have intended this and others have drifted into it. In these days of the mass media and expert propagandists, we are easily manipulated into thoughts and actions which are not expressive of or conducive to reality.

Easy words, proverbs, cliches, flip phrases, catchy slogans — all these have provided ways of avoiding reality in other centuries and today. The prophets accused the people of saying, "Peace, Peace, when there is no peace." Jesus warned, "Not every one that saith unto me Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom." No one can be against "Law and Order," but the very phrase itself has become a thought stopper and a conscience sopper.

Central in a Christian's faith will be the quest for reality, first in one's personal life, then in relationships, and deeply in faith, prayer and worship.

Several interested persons are contributing to this fund, and others are invited to do so.
