COMMUNION MEDITATION

"THE ENERGY OF FAITH"

"For truly, I say to you if you have faith as a grain of mustard see, you will say to this mountain, 'Move hence to yonder place,' and it will move, and nothing will be impossible to you." Matthew 17:20.

It is a terrible thing to lose one's faith! To lose faith in another human being is painful to bear. To lose faith in God and goodness, in hope and tomorrow is devastating, and really too much for us.

We not only need to believe, but normally we seem desperately to want to believe. Tennyson wrote of us, "We must believe or die." A New Testament person cried out to Jesus, "I believe; help thou my unbelief." We seek meaning in life, and belief is both cause and effect of meaning.

Faith is larger than belief, and in its complexity has additional components, such as trust, feeling, intuitive perception, response to God's offer, and pursuit of mystical realization. Faith is in us not as something settled and static, however firmly we may be established, but as something dynamic, lifting and compelling in its great power. It is in us a very great energy, the energy of the Spirit, the moving grace of God, an exodus of the soul, a true coming alive.

“IS IT REDEMPTIVE?”

“Ye are the salt of the earth.” Matthew 5:13.

An old ethical admonition by which we are to test every utterance about another person is in the formula: Before saying it, make it pass through three gates — Is it true? Is it necessary? Is it kind? For the Christian, a more meaningful formula, and less cumbersome, would be simply to test every word and every deed by the question, Is it redemptive?

Not that we must, or indeed can, pause and consider always before speaking and acting. Rather we must seek such internalizing of the redemptive intention as will enable us spontaneously to make the Christian test of our whole lives. This is indeed what St. Augustine means when he says, “Love and do as you please.” This genuine Christian experience and commitment provides us with a “ready reckoner” within our deeper selves. Thereby we do indeed become the “salt of the earth.”

The sermon will make applications of this principle of redemptive love to various levels of our living. It is indeed universal and demands application far beyond the pulpit.

"REDEMPTEIVE DEEDS OF COMMON LIFE"

"You are the salt of the earth." Matthew 5:13.

Those who were present with us on last Sunday, or otherwise keep up with our preaching schedule, will recognize that the title of this Sunday's Sermon is similar and that the text is the same as that of last Sunday. Indeed the two discourses are in integral sequence.

A sense of usefulness seems to be one of the basic ingredients of our well-being and happiness. John Wesley declares that he was more afraid of falling into uselessness than into hell. One great mystic wrote that he "fain would be to the eternal God as a man's hand is to the man." On the face of it, it seems presumptuous for a human being to feel that he is in partnership with God in the creative and redemptive process. But such high vocation is justified, even demanded, by Scripture and Christian commitment.

Our Christian life and service proceed from this basic understanding of our relationship to God. Even Jesus said, "My Father worketh hitherto and I work." He also said, "As the Father sent me, even so send I you."

Limitations to achievement should not be regarded as frustrations, but rather as measures of our obligations. We must not despise small beginnings or minor roles. Of such the Kingdom is builded.

The Felkel-Steinmeyer Sunday morning church school class in 1970 paid in $268.51 to the Christian Children's Fund for a foster child in Vietnam. In order to aid our soldiers in Vietnam the class used $60 to mail The Upper Room to our young people engaged in war. $50 was given directly from the Felkel-Steinmeyer class to our Children's Home in Enterprise. $35 was raised immediately to help a child in need.

The Felkel-Steinmeyer class has forty-eight of seventy ladies on the active roll. There are several shut-in members that are kept in contact with by various members through cards and personal visits. If any member meets an unfortunate circumstance, other members are quick to assist in helping the person in need. The average age of this class is fifty-five. Wouldn't you like to be a member of such a class? We have many wonderful adult Sunday morning church school classes. We invite you to join one!

Sermon Preview

"THE MEASURE OF THE CHURCH"

"And there was given unto me a reed like unto a rod; and the angel stood, saying 'Rise and measure the temple of God, and the altar, and them that worship therein'."

Revelation 11:1.

Many people are taking the measure of the Church in these days. It is surprising how many ecclesiastical experts there are abroad in the land! Some who write sitting so heavily in their editorial chairs seem hardly to have ever sat in a pew. In short, so many of those who assay to test us do so with inadequate instruments.

Our text suggests a heavenly measurement of the earthly Church. Indeed we dare not look at the Church except in the light of the divine intention, affirming at the beginning of our analysis, "The Church is of God." The place and patterns of institutional religion in the Bible provide us with help in knowing what the Church should be. Considerations of certain Biblical basics, such as Covenant, also enable us to understand what God intends his church to be in his world.

The text suggests that we "measure the altar," which is to require that we test our worship, especially as to whether we feel the divine presence and open ourselves to encounter with God. The command of the angel becomes more personal and particular when we are commanded to measure the people. This sermon will seek to use the whole text.

SUMMER UPON US

The month of July brings the full impact of hot weather, vacations, "coasting," and the inevitable "take-it-easy" set of mind, body and soul. As in other summers the church will survive, and even during the summer slump makes its plans for a busier time.
