Trinity welcomes back Reverend Willis

It seemed like a long time since Trinity members had seen Reverend Willis in the pulpit. Having been diagnosed with a cancerous tumor in June, it was a scary time.

Now, after recovery and a much needed vacation, Reverend Willis is ready to go again!

His appearance and message on Sunday, August 20, was greeted with smiles and tears of joy from the huge congregation. His sermon Sunday, "What God Has Been Teaching Me," illustrated what life's lessons can teach us. It's great to have him back, safe and sound.

Heart to Heart

Peace in the mountains

By John G. Willis, Jr.
Senior Pastor

It's a cool, cool, mountain evening. I'm sitting on the cottage deck as the sun sets behind the cotton candy clouds. I hear the sweet song of the birds and the comforting chirping of the crickets in the nearby woods. In the distance, I hear the bell ringing to signal the beginning of the evening performance at the Flat Rock Playhouse.

In the past two weeks while on vacation, I experienced the majesty of the mountains and have again been amazed by all their "greeness" that towers above, and the serenity of the mountain lake as a lone duck serenely glides across the tranquil surface.

These two weeks have been just what I needed to complete my healing. I know I must be healed because my appetite is stronger than ever!

Being in the mountains, staying in "the old home place," and seeing family and friends, have all worked together to help me in ways I never imagined.

During this, I experienced God's healing grace in a very personal manner. I am so thankful for this. It is so overwhelming to be blessed in the ways that I have been blessed, so I am returning with a heart full of gratitude.

Tomorrow morning (August 18) we leave here to return to Tallahassee. By the time you receive this, everything will be back in full swing- school, church activities, football, etc.

God's got a lot for us to do- and I want you to know...your reconditioned pastor is ready! Are you?

May God's grace be upon you,

Meet Trinity's newest staff member

Meet Michele Houston, Trinity's Office Secretary. Michele has experience perfectly suited to her position, having worked at Killearn Lakes United Methodist Church as a Church Secretary for five years, and more recently working for 88.1 WAY-FM as an office assistant.

She has lived in Tallahassee all of her life and is fortunate enough to have all of her family here too, with the exception of one of her three brothers.

Michele has been married to Tom Houston for the last 8 years and they have 3 children, Ashley, Brittney, and Thomas.

Michele likes hanging out at the beach, collecting seashells, and reading.

Welcome Michele to Trinity the next time you call the office.

Can you imagine how many good things would not have happened if United Methodist Women did not exist? The Trinity connection of the worldwide women's organization was founded in 1927 and continues its mission focus on the needs of women and children locally, statewide, nationally and internationally. Some of the high points will be covered at the kickoff luncheon of UMW on Tuesday, Sept. 5 in Moor Hall.

The luncheon begins at 11:45 and ends before 1 p.m. in time for working women to return to their jobs. Adopt-A-Nole Program

Jimmie and Nancy Duncan
Adopt-A-Nole Coordinators

Our church is a mile away from thousands of college students. We can have a positive impact on the lives of some of them through this program that matches students who are looking for a "home away from home" with families who can provide them with a loving, stress free environment.

Trinity families (all sizes and ages) who are interested in providing a college student an occasional home-cooked meal, a quiet exam study zone, or just a place to relax, please contact Nancy and Jimmie Duncan at 385-1084 or email at duncanjn2@comcast.net.

If you know of college students who might like to be a part of this, please provide us with their contact information.

Vance Rains, the chaplain at the FSU Wesley Foundation is working with Trinity and other churches in the area to facilitate the connection of students with church families.

There will be an ice cream social at the Wesley Foundation on September 17 to bring students and families together.

More letters of thanks to Trinity's youth from mission trip

The following two letters were received after the Trinity youth returned home from their mission trip to Mississippi this past summer. The letters are from two of the many people the Trinity youth helped while representing Trinity. Make sure to add your thanks when you see one of the youth.

From Mr. and Mrs. Smith

Dear Pastor and fine workers,

Thank you Pastor and group of fine workers who helped us so very much. The storm KATRINA left us pretty badly torn up, but you dear ones came to help us clean up the debris. OUR lives were spared and we are very thankful. It was a very kind Christian act for Pastor, church, and workers to come and help us.

Give our thanks and love to all the workers. They were kind, friendly, and faithful at the work. OUR fellowship was good and peasant while they worked.

May God continue HIS wonderful work through you dear ones.

Gratefully,

Sollie I. Smith and Wife, Agnes

From Dot Burge

Dear Members of Trinity UMC,

Please accept my sincere thanks for the wonderful work, spirit-filled young people and the chaperones and friends from your church that made such a difference at my home. I wish all of you could have seen the enthusiasm and joy they put into their visit here.

My barn is repaired (an ordeal in this heat) and 3 very special people cut a path to my creek. This is a special place to me and I hadn't been able to go down there since the storm. You'll never know what this meant to me!

Last but not least my horse, Whitey, had the week of his life. He was shampooed, fed watermelon, and had his mane plaited! He misses them! And so do I. They're welcome

Kate Sullivan supply drive a success

Jane Olson,
Kate Sullivan Coordinator

The 2006/2007 school year began August 14 and your generous donations of school supplies have been delivered and enthusiastically received by our partner school, Kate Sullivan Elementary School. We are also continuing our mentoring program which was initiated in 2002.

A one-hour mentor training orientation meeting will be held Monday, September 18 at 10 a.m. in the media room at Kate Sullivan.

Volunteers will work one-on-one with their student for about 30 minutes each week.

Anyone interested in this rewarding Reading All-Star Program should contact me at 385-4540.

Our wonderful volunteers last year included: Sam Rogers, Mary Margaret Rogers, Cindy Phillips, Carline Moore, Marg Orrick, Janet Cook, Pat Willis, Linda Rogers, Bill Moncrief, Gloria Colvin, Jane Olson, Bobby Williams, and Sue Walthall.

When you see them, thank them for their valuable service and generous representation of the Trinity family.

On a personal note, I was fortunate to be chosen to participate in the 23rd class of Leadership Tallahassee, sponsored by our neighbor, the Tallahassee Chamber of Commerce. This is a year long program seeking to build a strong sense of community by creating and empowering a network of well-informed leaders whose strengthened commitment to community involvement will affect positive change in the Tallahassee area. We all came away from this wonderful experience realizing that the essence of greatness comes through our youth. And we, as a church, can ensure this chance is given to every child through mentoring young minds. Ask any of our mentor volunteers!

The congregation at Trinity has once again responded with great generosity to a request for donations. The list of requested supplies for the needy Kate Sullivan elementary children was followed perfectly.

Trinity's active participation with Kate Sullivan shows we really do have a "Heart for the City."

Preparation

Kelly Rains,
HEO coordinator

It just dawned on me how much time I spend preparing and planning for one thing or another. It seems like that's all I do sometimes is look at upcoming events. Now don't get me wrong, I love to plan and people who know me say I'm quite the planner. But when is it too much? When do we need to draw the line and just enjoy the moment or take life one day at a time?

The amount of effort that was required to prepare my kids for school this year surprised me. It's not just getting a few new clothes or some pencils, it has moved way beyond that now. My kids had to get a tetanus booster shot, a USB memory stick, and non-scientific calculators to start 7th grade, not to mention all the other school supplies and "cool" clothes they also thought they needed. And then there are all the extracurricular activities like dance, karate, and baseball that have their own list of new items needed to start the year off right. So let's just say it's taken a lot of my time and money to "prepare" properly for this school year. As a mom I've also got other preparations in mind, like what nutritional lunches can we pack this year, how will they get enough sleep with these new crazy schedules, and finally, let's not forget the planning it will take to get them to all these activities on time.

Making plans for all of this makes my head spin and yet in a way it's worth all the effort. Recently our family took a vacation to Atlanta and lots of preparation and planning went into that trip. All of that effort paid off because the trip went off without a hitch. There are other events like weddings, reunions, and graduations that require preparation, not to mention having a new baby, buying a house, or moving to a new town. So, my question is, "If we spend all this time "preparing" for events in the future, are we missing what is happening now?" Are we really stopping to smell the roses or are we just planting new ones for next spring's garden?

I think God wants us to somehow do both. I think we always need to be looking forward, keeping our final home with Him in our minds. That can help us keep perspective on what's important in this life and perhaps, what's not. On the flip side, we also need to enjoy each day and spend it with Him; looking for all the little blessings life has to offer. Some how God is in both the now and the future. Jesus, kept things simple and dealt with each day as it came, however, he never lost sight of his future plan all along. So maybe preparation is not a bad thing, we just need to make sure we are preparing for the right thing and don't miss the little gifts along the way.

On Sunday, August 13, the Trinity Youth led worship for the congregation. Over 30 youth participated in presenting an energetic and praiseful service devoted to home and family.

2. Cousins Mary Beth Waddill and MaryLu Mullikin provided guitar accompaniment for the Youth Choir.

3. Members of the Youth Dance Team presented a liturgical interpretation of "Untitled Hymn" (Come to Jesus). From left, the dancers are Natalie Jump, Tori Bradley, Malinda Raines, Mary Beth Waddill, and Emily Hirst.

4. Clayton Hinson gave a Gospel reading from Ephesians.

5. AnnaLee Drake gave the morning prayer.

6. Jordan Perry spoke of the importance of family and being thankful for family.

7. Lyndsey Cook read from the Gospel of Matthew and spoke on the meaning of "home."

8. Natalie Jump read a passage from the book of Romans.

9. Youth Leader, Sheri Koyles, spoke on the meaning of home and how each person has a church home as well as a place to live.

10. The Youth Choir presented two songs that represented the theme of home. Not pictured above are Vanessa Carey who read from Psalms 84, and Bob High who greeted the congregation and presented the theme for worship.

New books aid understanding of faith and world

Karen Armstrong is one of the most respected and widely published scholars of religious history today. She's written extensively about the origins and belief systems of the world's major faiths in a way that's understandable to lay readers. In her most recent book, The Great Transformation, Armstrong examines the religious and philosophical traditions that developed in four separate areas of the world in the 9th century B.C.—Confucianism and Daoism in China, Hinduism and Buddhism in India, monotheism in Israel, and philosophical rationalism in Greece. All of these faiths began as responses to the violence of their time and emphasized compassion and a lack of selfishness. This "Axial Age" she considers a pivotal point from which all modern faiths have developed and that offers advice for our own violence-torn world.

Former Secretary of State Madeleine Albright has written a book that also points to the fundamental commonalities that the world's major religions share and advises that focusing on common ground rather than differences will improve America's effectiveness in dealing with other countries. In The Mighty and the Almighty: Reflections on America, God, and World Affairs Albright looks at the role of religion in world politics and urges an understanding of different religious faiths and the important roles that they play in different cultures. Rather than ignoring the important role that religion can play in motivating people, she believes that we must effectively join politics and religion to achieve justice, peace, and understanding in the world.

"Change" for September goes to "The Shelter"

Ron Hock
Church and Society Ministry Co-Chair

The "Change the City" program was created to provide a vehicle whereby the membership could contribute that loose "Change" to a worthwhile organization. Collection receptacles are located at the front door of the church and also in Moor Hall.

The recipient of September's "Change" will be The Shelter. Open 7 days a week, The Shelter provides a place to sleep and also provides balanced meals to the homeless men and women and any accompanying children.

Participating in the "Change the City" program is an easy way for Trinity members to further demonstrate that

Trinity is a church that has a "Heart for the City" and that we will continue "Healing Hurting Hearts."
